Stealing Away by I.H.

Hi Friends,

I am happy to announce that I have two pieces included in a wonderful group show entitled "Echoes". The exhibit is curated by the Arts Council on Bowen and will run the month of April. The opening reception is on Saturday, April 1.2017 from 6 - 8pm.

Contributing artists have provided sources drawn from the history of art, which have served as inspiration for their creative process.

I am showing the above pieces which are inspired by the works of German Expressionist artists who formed the Bauhaus style of the Blaue Reiter (The Blue Rider) of the early 19th century known for their radical departure from traditional realism. These bold abstract artists blazed a trail to allow subjective feeling to inform their creative process. In this way the art invites the viewing audience to directly interact with the art works, free from artistic program.

Like these cubist expressionists of the German Bauhaus Style, I believe that art can lead the viewer to spiritual enlightenment, as Kandinsky asserted: "Colour is the means of exerting direct influence on the soul". Come to the Bowen Island Arts Gallery in Artisan Square Village and hear the works whisper their transformational message.

Attached is the poster for the show. Please tell your friends and invite them to come. I would be delighted to see you there!

Also stay tuned for the release of selected pieces of my art on an exciting new platform and art gallery based in Switzerland.

In the spirit of the breath inspiring each brushstroke of becoming
